THE STRIKE IN CALIF. OILFIELDS.

Huntington Beach Cal.
Sept. 25, 1921.

Dear Editor:

Just a few lines to let you know that Henry West and family and I landed in good old southern California O. K., after a wonderful trip. We were 3 weeks on road. We traveled through the following states: Ky., Ill., Mo., Kans., Colo., New Mex., Ariz., traveling a distance of 3300 miles. We had the best of luck, we camped in all kind of places, deserts, mountain valleys and cities. We came over one mountain 8000 ft high. Anyone coming to Calif., will never regret making the trip in a car.

Conditions in the oilfields are pretty severe. There are 20,000 men on a strike now. There are 8000 more expected to walk out any minute. I would not advise any one to come here now looking for work, for you can't buy a job at present.

Hubert Smith, from that part
